Are you Ready for Winter — Home Maintenance Checklist

Inside

*Service furnace & water heater; replace furnace filter
*Check taps, toilets, and pipes for leaks
*Seal windows, doors, and door sweeps
*Test smoke alarms & carbon monoxide detectors; replace batteries

Outside

Clean eavestroughs and downspouts
Clear debris from exhaust vents and air intakes
Inspect roof for damage
Drain outdoor faucets, pipes, and sprinklers
Rake leaves; store outdoor furniture and yard items
Inspect trees for damaged branches
Check deck/porch for loose boards

FROZEN WATER PIPES

If your home, or rental property, is currently vacant & water service is still connected, please ensure that the home is adequately heated now that temperatures have plummeted; however, should the property remain vacant, consider having the water service disconnected during the winter months until such time as the house is inhabited again. Frozen water pipes are not something anyone wants to deal with. The Town is not responsible for such incidents.

COFFEE WITH THE COPS

Join the RCMP for a Coffee and a conversation. Ask questions and meet your local officers.

The Fall Mouse Migration is Underway

Mice often enter homes and establish nesting areas within walls, attics, basements, and crawl spaces while searching for warmth, water, and food.

Why Your Home is the Chosen Home

Mice enter homes because they offer warmth, protection, and easy access to food and moisture. They nest in quiet areas like wall voids, attics, and basements, using materials such as insulation and paper. Even small gaps provide entry points that allow mice to move indoors and establish themselves.

BUT they are so cute!

Mice can cause significant property damage by chewing through wood, drywall, insulation, and even electrical wiring, creating both costly repairs and potential fire hazards. Their droppings, urine, and saliva also pose health risks, as they can transmit serious diseases such as Hantavirus, Salmonellosis, and Leptospirosis.

Prevention and Control

Seal gaps around foundations, doors, windows, and utility lines, and store all food; including pet food in airtight containers to remove smells. Reducing clutter indoors and cleaning up outside helps eliminate hiding spots. If you suspect an active infestation, contact a licensed pest control professional for safe removal and exclusion.
